In that on the _____ day of _____ 20 _____ a Court of Law, namely the Magistrate's Court for the district of Gert Sibande held at Breyten/ Ermelo* issued an interim protection order in favour of _____ (full names of the complainant) against the said accused in terms of which he/ she* was ordered

interim protection order became of force and effect from the time that the interim protection order was duly served on the said accused on the _____ day of _____ 20 _____ and the said accused did on or about the _____ day of _____ 20 _____ and at or near _____ in the district of Gert Sibande wrongfully and intentionally contravene a prohibition, condition, obligation or order of the said protection order in that the said accused did _____

¹ An interim protection order only takes effect after it had been served to the accused. If an interim protection order had been issued against the accused and it had not been made final at the time of the commission of the offence, the accused must be charged with violating an interim protection order. The fact that an interim protection order had been made final after the commission of the offence, does not affect the charge to be put against the accused.
